

AEG Explores Attacks on Geologist Licensures

Association of Environmental & Engineering Geologists

The Association for Environmental and Engineering Geologists (AEG) published a story in AEG News (scroll to page 15) written by AEG Past President, Ken Fegason. In Arizona a bill was introduced to the state legislature that sought to eliminate licensure of geologists. Fegason points out that these issues may affect other states, and even licensed professionals like engineers in the future. He directs readers to resources available from AEG and encourages geoscientists to be vigilant of this issue.

Tags:

- geotimes, member society, policy
-