

GSL: New Paper Explores Origin of Stonehenge Bluestones

Geological Society of London

The Geological Society of London's (GSL) journal published a new study looking at the origin of the bluestones of Stonehenge using U-Pb zircon dating. The GSL blog outlines some of the early findings of this study, seeking to determine if the bluestones were carried to Stonehenge, or if the rocks were transported there as glacial erratics.

Tags:

- geotimes, history, geochemistry
-