

Published on American Geosciences Institute (<https://www.americangeosciences.org>)

Home > #GeoModelMonday

#GeoModelMonday

The AGI Education Program celebrated #GeoModelMonday by pointing out that prismatic crystals can be found in lots of places, like the mineral structures for calcite and tourmaline. They shared a link to an activity on crystal cleavage paper models from the James Madison University Department of Geology and Environmental Science that can be found, along with many other activities in the Education Resources Network.

Tags:

- geotimes, education, activities, minerals
-