Hi-res (40 cm) satellite imagery now available from European geospatial company

via European Space Imaging:
"The 40 cm resolution data is available for both standard orders and time-critical rush orders. On average, imagery ordered from the archive in the rush mode takes less than 2 hours to be delivered, and new image collections less than 3 hours, enabling agencies to respond to critical situations in a timely manner."

Read the full press release.

Tags:
- geotimes, data, gis