

Published on American Geosciences Institute (<https://www.americangeosciences.org>)

Home > EARTH: Lofted by Hurricanes, Bacteria Live the High Life

---

EARTH: Lofted by Hurricanes, Bacteria Live the High Life

With cold temperatures, low humidity and high levels of ultraviolet radiation, conditions 10 kilometers above Earth's surface may seem inhospitable. But, next time you're flying consider this: The air outside your airplane window may be filled with microscopic life that affects everything from weather and climate to the distribution of pathogens around the planet.

Press Release PDF:

EARTHMay_PR3_13.pdf

---