Big Data Bottlenecks in Oil and Gas #energy #bigdata

American Association of Petroleum Geologists

What do people, computing power, and data I/O have to do with the oil and gas industry? They all represent some form of challenge or solution to the industry's relationship to big data. The American Association of Petroleum Geologists sit down with industry experts to investigate where the data bottlenecks lie and how the field may move forward in coming years in its new Explorer article available online.
