

AGU Explores the FY2017 Omnibus

American Geophysical Union

If you're wondering how science fared in the omnibus bill passed by Congress last week, the American Geophysical Union (AGU) has you covered. In a short blog post by AGU Executive Director and CEO, Christine McEntee. In short, 2017 looks alright but she urges scientists to remain vigilant for 2018. There's still time to login to the AGU/AGI Heads and Chairs webinar on this topic happening now. No worries if you missed it though, check back later to listen to an archived broadcast of the presentation.

Tags:

- geotimes, member society, policy
-