

AAPG Names Denise Cox as President-Elect

American Association of Petroleum Geologists

Beginning July 1, 2017 Denise Cox, Past-President of the Association for Women Geoscientists, will start her tenure as the President-Elect of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists (AAPG). Cox is the President of Storm Energy and has been a member of AAPG since 1984. Charles Sternbach will assume his role as president that day as well. Read more about the newly elected members of the AAPG Executive Committee here.

Tags:

- geotimes, member society, leadership, aapg
-