IAH Seeks Nominees for Applied Hydrogeology Award #geoscience #groundwater

International Association of Hydrogeologists/U.S. National Chapter

The International Association of Hydrogeologists seeks nominees for their Applied Hydrogeology Award. The award will be presented to a groundwater professional who has made an outstanding contribution to the application of hydrogeology, preferentially in developing countries or in support of international development efforts and special attention will be paid to work which has contributed to an increase in living standards in developing countries. Applications are due by July 1st, 2017.
