Join SEPM at the International Conference on Fluvial Sedimentology #geoscience #energy

SEPM (Society for Sedimentary Geology)

The International Conference on Fluvial Sedimentology (ICFS) is being held in Calgary from July 17-21, 2017. The 11th ICFS will bring together a diverse group of researchers interested in the processes and deposits across all scales of fluvial systems. The Society for Sedimentary Geology (SEPM) is helping fund the meeting, in addition to the Canadian Federation of Petroleum Geologists, the International Association of Sedimentologists and the Imperial Oil Company. The ICFS will provide a collegial forum for discussion on emerging trends and the latest research in fluvial sedimentology. The meeting will include a mix of oral and poster sessions as well as field trips before, during and after the conference.
