

Published on American Geosciences Institute (<https://www.americangeosciences.org>)

Home > Suzette Kimball nominated to lead U.S. Geological Survey

Suzette Kimball nominated to lead U.S. Geological Survey

President Obama has nominated the current Acting Director of the U.S. Geological Survey, Suzette Kimball, to assume the position full time. Kimball, a veteran of the Survey, has served numerous functions within the organization since joining in 1998, including the Director for the Eastern Region, Associate Director of geology, and Deputy Director of the USGS.

Sources: Department of the Interior
