

Published on American Geosciences Institute (<https://www.americangeosciences.org>)

Home > Giggenbach bottle

Giggenbach bottle

Giggenbach bottle . An evacuated alkaline-solution-filled bottle (e.g., sodium hydroxide, NaOH), generally connected to a titanium or silica tube which is inserted into a fumarole. The gases bubble through the solution, condense, and are absorbed by the solution, which can be analyzed (William-Jones and Rymer, 2000).

Tags:

- geotimes

Website:

GeoWord of the Day
