

sechron

sechron (se'-chron). The maximum interval of geologic time occupied by a given depositional sequence, defined at the points where the boundaries of the sequence change laterally from unconformities to conformities along which there is no significant hiatus (Mitchum, 1977, p.210).

Tags:

- geotimes

Website:

GeoWord of the Day
