AGI Announces Holiday Publications Sale

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — The American Geosciences Institute (AGI) announces holiday discounts on publications and electronic resources for the spring 2024 semester to assist educators, students, and the wider geoscience community.

Best-selling resources for educators and students are now discounted through January 31, 2024.

The Geoscience Handbook is now discounted 25% off retail price. Learn more about this comprehensive resource, available in both a full-color spiral-bound print format and as a downloadable digital file. The Handbook makes an excellent gift for the geoscience student or professional.

The definitive Glossary of Geology — now an annual, digital subscription accessible by login/password — is discounted 20% off retail price. The Glossary provides students, educators, and professionals access to authoritative definitions of geoscience terminology across the professional literature.

The Geotimes Collection, containing every issue of Geotimes/Earth Magazine (1956-2019) on a flash drive, is now 50% off its regular $100 price. Explore the history of geoscience through the stories of the magazine.

All publications are available at the AGI Store: <https://geosciencestore.org/>.

For more information on bulk ordering, please email jr@americangeosciences.org.
