AAG Publishes Updated Guide to #Geography Programs in the Americas

American Association of Geographers

Promotional Artwork for AAG's Guide to Geography Programs in the Americas

The American Association of Geographers published the annual update to the Guide to Geography Programs in the Americas which covers the degree requirements, curricula, faculty qualifications, program specialties, financial assistance, and degrees completed, and more for undergraduate and masters programs in the United States, Canada and Latin America. The guide is available for free download online, or users can access the interactive companion map to search for programs by location, degree type, field of interest, and regional focus.
