

AGU Scientist Shares Her Proactive Approach to #Science #Policy

American Geophysical Union

In March 2017 American Geophysical Union (AGU) member and climate scientist, Dr. Susan Kaspari participated in Climate Science Day at the U.S. Capitol. The changing policies surrounding the 2016 Presidential Election motivated her to engage more in science policy. As part of that day she met with her Congressman, Rep. Dave Reichert. What follows is a continued effort on behalf of her lab to create a stronger relationship with her congressional representation. Read more about what she has done to be proactive about science policy in AGU's blog dedicated to science policy, "The Bridge."
