

American Meteorological Society

Founded in 1919, the American Meteorological Society (AMS) is the nation's premier scientific and professional organization promoting and disseminating information about the atmospheric, oceanic, hydrologic sciences. Our more than 13,000 members include scientists, researchers, educators, broadcast meteorologists, students, weather enthusiasts, and other professionals in the fields of weather, water, and climate.

AMS is a 501(c)3 non-profit membership organization, headquartered in the historic Harrison Gray Otis House in Boston's Beacon Hill neighborhood. We also have an office in Washington, DC, where we run our education and policy programs.

AMS is committed to strengthening the incredible work being done across the public, private, and academic sectors. Our community knows that collaboration and information sharing are critical to ensuring that society benefits from the best, most current scientific knowledge and understanding available.
