

2005-2006 AGI Fellow Steve Quane

Dr. Steven Quane, a volcanologist from Colorado, was selected to be the 2005-2006 American Geological Institute Congressional Science Fellow. He worked as a legislative aide to Representative Tom Udall, a Democrat representing the third district of New Mexico. He helped the congressman initiate the Peak Oil Caucus in the House of Representatives.

Steve completed his PhD in volcanology in 2004 from the University of British Columbia and earned a Master's degree from the University of Hawaii in 1999. He returned to Colorado to teach at Colorado College and now teaches geology at Quest University in Squamish.

Quane and the other 2005-2006 geoscience fellows are profiled in the December 2005 issue of Geotimes. Steve has written the following articles for Geotimes:

- Its Not Hairspray: America's Need for Science (8/06)
 - The Rocket Docket: Legislating Science Out of Public Policy (5/06)
 - The Great Washington Rift (2/06)
 - A Volcanologist Enters Energy Politics (11/05)
-
- policy
 - congressional geoscience fellow
 - 2005
-