

Influences of Students' Career Goals

This graph highlights how each of the following individuals, resources, or experiences influenced Geology and Geography students' career goals. Geology students' career goals included working in the private sector, working in education (in teaching or diversity-related studies), and aspiring towards management positions. When geography students responded, they indicated their interest in pursuing teaching or education careers, working in the GIS, or going into industry-related careers.