AGI Announces New Year Publications Sale

Alexandria, VA – To celebrate the new year, the American Geological Institute (AGI) is offering deep discounts of up to 75% off on some of its most popular book titles for purchases made by January 31st, 2011.

All Environmental Awareness Series publications, a great tool for the classroom and public outreach events, and the important Evolution and the Fossil Record will be marked down to $5.00. Minerals: Foundations of Society and the Glossary of Hydrology (normally $40.00) will each be available for $10.00.

Visit the AGI publications website at <http://www.agiweb.org/pubs/> to learn more about this special limited time offer and our many other books, DVDs, t-shirts and more.

The American Geological Institute is a nonprofit federation of 47 geoscientific and professional associations that represents more than 120,000 geologists, geophysicists and other earth scientists. Founded in 1948, AGI provides information services to geoscientists, serves as a voice of shared interests in the profession, plays a major role in strengthening geoscience education, and strives to increase public awareness of the vital role the geosciences play in society's use of resources, resiliency to natural hazards, and interaction with the environment.
